Our combination of intellectual and human capital allows us the benefit of a deep inventory of corporate standards. When back dropped against our multi-national and multi-industry expertise AMS represents a "go to" solution for research data.

Our databases can be cut by industry, by topic or by case study and then compliment with real time research driven by an AMS consultant. Our firm has been contracted to produce data reduction reports for the following objectives:

- Salary scales
- Demographic work force availability
- Competency specific content
- Project and performance metrics
- Risk and probability
- Competitive analysis
- Marketing
- And more.

Additionally, our consultants can undertake a specific research project for your company to validate or justify project activities. For example, in this model AMS has produced ROI reports for projects as large as one billion dollars in the oil refinery industry. Our depth and experience allows us to scale quickly and produce data in a time sensitive environment.
